SIXTY-FIRST YEAR

NO. 5

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1937

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS—Data supplied by Secretary of State William J. Kennedy and compiled by Dr. T. C. Moly of the bureau of educational research, Ohio State university, indicated that voters in Ohio districts gave educational programs better-than-average support in the form of special levies during 1937, but turned down most of the proposed school bond issues. Dr. Moly found that eighty-seven per cent of the special levies submitted in cities and exempted village school districts received approval, compared to a ten-year average of eighty per cent. Bond issues totalling $9,953 were submitted during 1937 but only four per cent were approved, compared to an average of fifty-two per cent approved during the previous decade. Dr. Moly's report indicated that of the sixty-two bond issues which failed this year, thirty-six received more than a majority vote but lacked the necessary fifty-five per cent required by state law.

Rustlers, the nemesis of western ranchers, will have a difficult time of it in the future in Ohio if proposed action is taken by the General Assembly to strengthen the state's law regarding rustling. As a result of recent wholesale rustling thefts in several Ohio counties, particularly Franklin, Madison and Delaware, two important bills which provide more stringent penalties for the crime were introduced in the house of representatives and both have the support of Governor Martin L. Davey and the Ohio State Senate. One sponsored by Rep. William McCulloch, of Miami county, would require persons transporting livestock within the state to carry a certificate of sale signed by the seller, and the other, sponsored by Rep. A. Lee Fair of Holmes county, would materially increase the penalty for rustling livestock. In recent years rustling has increased to alarming proportions in Ohio, has cost farmers thousands of dollars in stolen cattle, sheep and hogs.

A special program mapped to cut down the increasing pneumonia death toll in Ohio has been inaugurated by the State Department of Public Health, it was announced by Dr. Walter H. Hartung, state health director. He revealed that a staff of sixteen is taking extensive training in the so-called "typing" method of checking the disease. There are thirty-two types of pneumonia, Dr. Hartung asserted, and in many cases it takes a physician two or three days to determine which type he is dealing with. Such a delay, in some instances, results in a fatality. The typing method will enable a doctor to diagnose a case, and "type" it, within an hour, which it is estimated will give the patient a thirty-five per cent better chance of recovery.

Approximately ninety-five per cent of the motor vehicle license revenue for 1937 which goes to counties and municipalities has already been distributed, according to Registrar Frank West of the bureau of motor vehicles. The last payment, totalling $1,822,392, was sent to the county auditors in December. Forty-seven per cent of the total license revenue is distributed to the counties, and twenty-five per cent to municipalities, Registrar West said.

Director W. T. Doe of the state employment service reported that as a result of the current business recession November job placements declined twenty-five per cent in comparison with the October placements. He predicted that the December placements will be less than those in December, 1936.

Prosperity Dwindles To Real "Recession"

The New Deal prosperity (just as we had planned it) where government and individual debt would lift you out of debt, slid into what Roosevelt calls a "recession." The announcement Tuesday that General Motors would lay off 30,000 employees beginning with the New Year, does not sound a cheerful note, or usual "Prosperous New Year" greeting. Other motor car companies are doing the same due to slow sale of new cars and the inability of dealers to sell used cars.

RECEIVED SPRAINED ANKLE

Arthur Evans, restaurant proprietor sustained a sprained right ankle while on the street Monday evening at the Nagley corner and had to be carried to his room. Dr. Donald Kyle set the injured member.

Rhoades and Jollett H. Rhoades. Senate Probe Finds

Pay Dirt First Day

The Ohio Senate probe of conditions in Ohio departments got under way Tuesday night and "pay dirt" was uncovered in the liquor department. Davey administration leaders have tried every way to kill the investigation and Tuesday the Governor announced he would have his own "fishing excursion." Charges have been made that distillers could not sell the state liquor with out a "cash donation" to higher ups and highway material interests make the same complaint. It is also hinted that several well-known Republicans have "inside" on the sale of supplies to the Davey administration. Purchase of highway material used for resurfacing the Dayton-Xenia pike will also figure in the investigation. Columbus purchased the same road coating of the same firm for about one-third of what the state paid and the probe is to uncover who was in on the "split."

County Auditor James J. Curlett has named the following deputies to issue dog licenses in the county, the prices being the same as last year: James Bailey at Cedarville; Mrs. Wetzel at Bellbrook; R. G. George at Jamestown; Harold Van Pelt at Spring Valley; Harold Hackett at Yellow Springs; Claude H. The remaining $1,500 was apportioned among the twelve township trustee boards of the county, on a population basis, as follows: Xenia, Silvercreek, Cedarville, Miami, Beaver Creek and Bath Twp., each $150; Ross, Sugar Creek, Jefferson, Spring Valley, New Jasper and Caesar Creek Twp., each $100. Commissioners said the state loan, which must be repaid next year in ten equal installments out of 1938 sales tax relief allocations to this county, is designed primarily for December relief financing but that any unexpended balance may be carried over and applied to relief in January.

He was rushed to the hospital and specialists called for an operation but he never regained consciousness. He died Saturday December 11. The funeral was held Sunday with burial the following day at Oxford, O., his former home. Mr. MenMuir was a former resident here before locating in Oxford.

Two members are retiring, Dr. Leo Anderson and Mrs. Anna Frame. Both have served for a number of years and given much of their time and services in behalf of the village where the property is small and oftentimes lacks lacking.

Columbus Firm Gets County Contract

The State Highway Department has left a contract to the A. W. Burns Construction Co., Columbus, for improving 2.64 miles of the Xenia-Springfield pike, including re-locating 1.2 mile and re-erection of a steel beam bridge near Old Town. The lowest bid was that of the Columbus firm, $182,686.78, which was $31,890.47 below the first estimate. Under the pass crossing that has been a hazard to motorists and a sharp curve will be eliminated.

Farm and domestic labor cannot benefit under the law.

Greene County Fair Nets $4500 Profit

The 1937 county fair netted a profit of $4,500, according to the annual report of E. U. Bell, treasurer. LOCAL BUSINESS MAN MISSING SINCE FRIDAY

There has been much concern locally over what is believed to be a planned departure from this community of Jean Patton local Ford dealer. Mr. Patton left here Friday night supposedly for Lima to spend the holidays with his parents, who reside near that city. His leaving was with the knowledge of his wife and daughter. When he had not returned to his place of business Monday, it was not long until reports began to fly fast, and creditors were soon on the job. A representative of a finance company is said to have slept in the garage office Monday night. By Tuesday night a number of new cars as well as all used cars had been taken out of town and the place has since been closed.

Mrs. Marie Swabey Died Tuesday

Colonial Theater To Have Stage Shows

Good news to theater-goers in the neighboring towns to Dayton, Ohio, is the announcement that stage shows are returning on Friday, December 31st to the RKO Colonial theater in Dayton. This popular theater which has played stage shows during most of the past four years is bringing some of the outstanding talent in the amusement world. This is certainly good news to those who will not be able to find stage show entertainment elsewhere in southern Ohio.

The opening attraction at the RKO Colonial will be a large colorful musical revue, entitled "Play Girls of 1938" featuring a company of 45 entertainers and 20 girls. This is the same show, intact and complete, that has played the leading theaters in America. In addition a new screen feature is being presented.

Another important theatrical notice emanating from the RKO Colonial is the fact that two special New Year's Eve shows will be presented at 8:30 P. M. and 11:30 P. M. on Friday night, December 31st. MONTGOMERY COUNTY COURT

BACKS LEGAL GAMBLING

The crusade between Dayton city and Montgomery county officials to check "legal" gambling hit a snag for a short time last week when Judge Piddap, Common Pleas Court issued an injunction in behalf of gamblers. The city police ignored the injunction and later county authorities did the same. The charge is made the Judge was financially interested in a resort where gambling was featured.

Judge R. R. Nevin, Dayton, federal court appointed H. B. Ohmer, trustee under the national bankruptcy act. Mrs. Clara Morton and daughter, Mrs. Norman Sweet, Rossford, O., have been spending the Holiday here, expecting to return next Tuesday.

Weather Review For Year 1937

Ohioans looked back on 1937 as one of the wettest years on record. The year began with mild temperatures and phenomenal rains, ascribed by State Meteorologist J. C. Fisher as the direct cause of the disastrous January Ohio River flood and lesser inundations over the State.

Half, sleet, storms of tornado-like proportions and two minor earthquakes added material during the year for the ever-recurring topic of conversation—the weather. Unusually mild temperatures were recorded in February, but wet weather delayed spring plowing and planting and hampered the fall wheat harvest. Corn was one of the few crops which thrived.

Fall temperatures were described by Fisher as generally above normal. 9.42 Inches of Rain. January rainfall for the State averaged 9.42 inches, the largest amount for any month since September, 1866, when the average was 9.67 inches. The 1936 January average was 1.65 inches.

With but four exceptions, January, 1937, also was the warmest initial month. The average temperature was 35.9 degrees compared with the 1936 January average of 22.7 degrees. "The phenomenal January precipitation, following heavy rains the last five days of December, 1936, naturally resulted in floods," Fisher explained. "Flood stages on the Ohio River tributaries such as the Muskingum, Hocking and Scioto were generally reached by the middle of the month and maintained until near the close."

A mild February left rivers and lakes comparatively free of ice. The Toledo Weather Bureau reported that the steamer E. C. Pope arrived light from Detroit, Mich., opening navigation on Lake Erie earlier than at any time since records were started in 1891. The steamer loaded and started back the following day.

March was unusually dry, only five such months having less precipitation recorded since records began in 1883. Fisher noted two slight earthquakes during the month, one on the 2nd of about 15 seconds duration and another on the 9th. The tremors caused damage in the vicinity of Anna, O.

April precipitation was considerably above normal and storms during May caused heavy damage in the northern part of the State. Especially in the vicinity of Toledo, Niles and Youngstown.

June's average rainfall of 6.07 inches was the fourth highest monthly average that has been recorded thus far. In that month Sandusky recorded the greatest 24-hour rainfall for the State, 5.95 inches on the 24-25th. Underground streams backed up and flooded Bellevue and vicinity. A tornado-like storm ripped across the southeastern section of Ohio on the 21st and hail in northern sections caused damage estimated by Fisher in excess of $1,000,000.

November was recorded as the driest November since 1917 and December was described as cold and dry during the first 15 days. Continuous rains during succeeding days, however, caused several minor floods.

Continue Fight Against Tuberculosis

There is altogether too much tuberculosis in Greene County. Since 11 persons are known to have advanced tuberculosis, since nine others are known to be moderately advanced since 108 others have been diagnosed positively, it would seem that it was time for a sustained drive to stamp out this disease.

In some parts of the country tuberculosis has been practically eliminated in cattle. Is there no possibility of accomplishing the same thing in man? Of course the problem of tuberculosis is much more simple in cattle, those found infected being immediately slaughtered. Such a procedure in man would hardly be condoned, although we sometimes wonder whether sudden death isn't much preferable to slow death extending over a period of months or years.

It is a sad thing for a doctor to be compelled to tell a family that a patient will inevitably die in spite of everything that can be done. Nevertheless that is the sad story in most cases of advanced tuberculosis. A death sentence is not an easy thing for a doctor to pronounce. Even though the patient recovers it means months and even years of seeking an elusive cure, if the word cure can ever be used.

With present day facilities no case should reach the advanced stage before diagnosis. As a matter of fact we feel that we can truthfully say that few if any cases need ever reach the advanced stage. It may be that we can go a step farther and say no person need die with tuberculosis. Early diagnosis will save many lives.

LOCAL MAN INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Elvin Everhart, employee of The Hagar Straw Board & Paper Co., met what is said to be serious injury when his car crashed into a bridge railing near the Spahr farm on the Cedarville and Jamestown pike, Wednesday afternoon about five o'clock.

Everhart was riding alone in a new 1938 car and according to witnesses was driving at a fast rate of speed when he hit the bridge. The car overturned and Everhart sustained a bad cut on the forehead and an injury to his back that is thought will prove serious. Dr. Donald Kyle gave first aid and the man was taken to the McClellan Hospital, where he was placed in a plaster cast with a fractured vertebra.

According to Deputy Sheriff Whitten, who investigated, the new car was a total wreck.

Local Firm Gives Up Machinery Agency

Mrs. Dorothy Wright, manager of the Cedarville Lumber Co., issues a statement that her company has discontinued the farm machinery agency of the International Harvester Co., the firm representing that company the past eleven years. The International agency has been taken over by Farm Machinery, Inc., Lawrence Dukes, manager.

INCOME TAXES NEXT

The Internal Revenue office in Cincinnati announces that income tax blanks will be mailed about January 15th, all reports to be in by March 15th.

All places of business and persons issuing sales tax blanks must have their reports in by Jan. 15th. Don't forget your dog license.

Temperance Notes

Cedarville W. C. T. U.

Not so long ago brewers, through their trade organs, were suggesting that the drys join them against the distillers in order to promote "true temperance" throughout the land by the increased sale and consumption of "harmless" beer. But the drys could not see it that way—in fact did not even try to—so now these same brewers are saying that beer, being alcoholic (they admit it!), the drys continue to wage war against it as well as against hard liquor, so that they, the brewers, are now willing to unite "wholeheartedly" with distillers in a counter attack against the drys.—Tap and Tavern, July 5, 1937.

"Birds of a feather flock together." The brewers and distillers have always united in attacking the drys.

The time is at hand, so it appears to me, to begin a concentrated campaign to sell beer to the housewife. Until now, there have been only sporadic attempts in this direction; only a few brewers or distributors have given thought to the importance of the housewife; only a few feeble publicity campaigns have been started in that direction. Surely the importance of the housewife is a thing to conjure with, and never so important than at this time, when Juvenile Protective Leagues and others are attacking the methods pursued in the distribution of beer in its relation to American home life.—The Brewer's Journal.

Kind words cheer heavy hearts. "The simple conclusion, then, is that a driver can't play safe by taking a glass of beer instead of a 'shot' before he goes out in his car. For he still will be on the short end of the odds against death and tragedy."

Evangeline Booth says: "Drink has drained more blood, hung more crepe, sold more homes, plunged more people into bankruptcy, armed more villains, slain more children, snapped more wedding rings, defiled more innocence, blinded more eyes, twisted more limbs, dethroned more reason, wrecked more manhood, dishonored more womanhood, broken more hearts, blasted more lives, driven more to suicide, and dug more graves than any other poisoned scourge that ever swept its death-dealing waves across the world."

At the reorganization of the Greene County Fair Board, N. M. Hunter, Jamestown, was re-elected president; R. K. Haines, vice president; Mrs. J. Robert Bryson, secretary; B. U. Bell, treasurer. The dates for the coming fair will be Aug. 3 to 6.

NEWTON BAKER WAS A BRILLIANT LAWYER

The American Bar Association lost one of its outstanding members and the nation a leader among men in the death of Newton D. Baker, who died Christmas day at the age of 66 years. Mr. Baker first came before the public when associated with Tom Johnson, in his fight for lower street car fares in Cleveland. Baker as a Democrat was soon recognized by state and national leaders and when Woodrow Wilson became president he named Mr. Baker as Secretary of War and it was he who organized the greatest army in the history of the world and sent it abroad in the cause of peace. While personally opposed to war yet he was credited with that famous statement: "I love peace so much I am willing to fight for it."

No one ever questioned Newton Baker's sincere motive in behalf of the Democratic party. When Franklin Roosevelt was nominated Baker campaigned for him and supported him and his policies until the Communists began to get a foothold in the White House. Raymond Moley, one of the first brain-trusters, was a Guyahogian and when Roosevelt became engulfed in Communist ideas Moley resigned, and Baker at the same time stepped back and seldom after had much to say in behalf of the Roosevelt administration. Baker was an open opponent of the Roosevelt plan to pack the Supreme Court. He predicted to friends that if the Democratic party won in 1940 under the present leadership, the nation will have seen its last president, irrespective of party with absolute dictatorship.

It was only a few weeks ago that Baker as attorney for southern interests had attacked the Communistic TVA power program in federal courts.

FROM THE CRY OF PEACE TO THAT OF WAR

When war drums no longer dull the hearing of a nation, then we hear the pleading for a lasting world peace. Politicians feel safe in preaching peace with war in the distance and the public is soon lulled into a state of peace. Then some one tilts the chip on the shoulder and the fight is on just as we have it in China and Japan, the latter the aggressor. We have heard of World Courts, the League of Nations, treaties of this and that, and international law governing the rules of warfare. The war rages in the far East but under international law it cannot be called a war legally for Japan has never publicly declared war. Such an act would legalize the far East conquest. To the average citizen all this certainly is a hollow mockery.

Down in Washington the cause of peace at home and abroad has been flouted before a stupid public yet all the time the administration has been spending hundreds of millions developing all kinds of fighting machines for land, water and the air. Tuesday, Roosevelt ordered American war ships into the troubled waters, following the bombing and sinking of an American vessel.

Roosevelt also sounds a warning to Congress that millions more must be provided for additional warships to keep up with other nations. Cong. Ludlow proposes a referendum that the people of this country vote first whether they want war rather than leave the declaration to come from Congress or even the President, who ever he may be at the time. Roosevelt orders the Ludlow plan smothered at once and gives the signal that he alone will determine when war is declared. But when he calls for man power he must call for the youth from families of all political parties. New Dealers should not wait for the call, they should be the first to volunteer.

In all sincerity we wish all Herald readers and patrons a "Prosperous New Year" and that war and man made economic clouds will clear early in the New Year.

Walter Chrysler, the motor magnet, started from the ground up as a poor boy at common labor. Later in life he quit a $12,000 job to take one at $6,000 a year to get into the automobile field. Chrysler as well as Henry Ford, could have sat back and waited and at their age draw an old pension. Independence, not dependence placed them where they are, the object of attack from the standpoint of the Communist, who lives only from the sweat of another man's brow.

The O. A. Dobbins article in our last issue, as given in the Springfield Sun as an interview, has created much comment among farmers. It must have hit a responsive cord for Mr. Dobbins informs us that he has received much "fan mail," commenting and complimenting him on his stand. The consensus of opinion in the mail is that only those to be on the farm program salary list are actively engaged in boosting the program.

Members of Congress had the information that all farm organizations were backing the Wallace program. Of course this was false. We have interviewed two score of our leading farmers and yet have to find the first farmer that had been asked for an expression on the last Wallace program. Because a small group of farm organization men gathered in Columbus and endorsed the farm registration bill, the impression was sent to Washington that Ohio farmers were unanimous for the bill. The Columbus group were mostly those who would profit under the bill with salaries out of the federal treasury. Both Senators Buckley and Donahy voted against the Wallace bill.

A new scare crowd was spread over the air Sunday night by a New Dealer threatening business leaders, a method of keeping the public mind off other subjects where the administration is falling down. It is certain the speaker had the backing of the White House. Monday the stock market took another tumble. Meantime business will stay in hiding to escape the storm. More unemployment and continuation of the Roosevelt "recession" or panic, for business is panic stricken ever since the radical speech made by Roosevelt weeks ago in Chicago.

With the Senate demanding an investigation of trusts following the famous Sunday night attack against business, it is going to be hard to tell us where there is restraint of trade. Congress just a few months ago passed what is called the "fair price law," that is manufacturers must sell their products to all buyers at the same price, playing no favorites under penalty of law. Two weeks ago the government asked for bids in rubber tires to the amount of over a million dollars. Manufacturers all bid their listed prices, the same prices as quoted the trade. Then came the form and Sec. Ickes, a former hot-air Chicago real estate dealer, thundered that the manufacturers were combining against the government by bidding the same prices. Here you have the government demanding that business leaders violate the newest anti-trust law that the government can buy automobile tires for less than the trade. The government turned down the bids of the five leading tire manufacturers and gave the order to a Chicago mail order house. Yet the cry of the administration has been in behalf of the "little or forgotten man." The Chicago mail order house has its tires made under the open shop rule, yet the New Deal forces union scale of wages on others. What will eventually come will be a united effort on every industry in the U. S. going on a "sit down" strike. Close down everything at one time would give the New Dealers something to think about and the White House occupant another fishing excursion.

The New Orleans item in an editorial does not like the Wallace farm bill. It was all right for the south until some mean Republican offered an amendment which was supported by the western, central and eastern states congressmen. The bill before it was amended would have permitted the cotton farmers in the south to raise livestock, poultry and dairy products on the restricted land. The bill would not permit northern or western farmers to use the protected land, hence the amendment which the south does not like. Farmers north of the Mason and Dixon line will see the joker Wallace had in the bill to soft-soap the south but when this mean Republican pointed out that the south would get in competition with the north and west, Republicans and Democrats voted to delete the bill of the Wallace joker. The New Orleans paper "hopes the amendment will be voted out of the Farm Bill before its passage."

The seamen's unions have demanded of the New Deal that all American vessels carry a certain number of cases of beer according to the size of the crew. Hours and wages also figure in the union demands. Chairman Kennedy recently said following his investigation of mutiny on a government vessel, that "why waste money on a merchant marine if we cannot have discipline?" The crew on the Alge struck and in a drunken disorder drove officers from the ship in port. The President Hoover ran into a sand bar in the Pacific last week. The passengers charge the crew was drunk and refused to take orders, even refusing to assist passengers to life boats. Our only hope is that the crew on the most presidential fishing boat "got tight on the famous Roosevelt government made rum and strikes when 100 miles from shore. Mutiny would be welcome on that boat, in fact the mutineers should have the promise of a medal. The fourteen Alge mutineers were convicted.

It is a fine record of accomplishment for the automobile driver's license has made in Ohio. It reads just like the promise that old age pensions would empty the poor houses. Here was the record in Cincinnati for 25 days this month. Accidents, 777; persons injured, 364; fatalities, 11. For the year time far 5,540 accidents happened with 3,177 persons injured. This is not a bad record under the license law that was to control reckless driving. The courts over Ohio all report the majority of major accidents are caused by intoxicated drivers, only a small fraction of whom have licenses revoked, due to pull of Democratic politicians.

New Dealers certainly have much to be proud of in the repeal of prohibition. Up in Warren, O., Christmas, a daughter of a wealthy woman, the widow of a founder of a big steel company, had been out on a party with plenty of liquor, evidently the kind Roosevelt boasts of and would recommend for use in every home. The mother was decorating the Christmas tree when the intoxicated daughter entered the room and pulling a revolver began shooting at the fancy balls on the tree. Mother was behind the tree and was a victim of the drink crazed daughter's gun. The daughter is in jail. She should be sentenced to serve time at the White House.

Simone Gets In Winchell's Column

Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie, those pun-slinging gentlemen above, who delighted audiences in "Wake Up and Live" are back for the greatest return match in history in the musical "Love and Hisses" which will be the screen attraction at the New Year's Eve midnight celebration at the beautiful Regent theater in Springfield, where it will play through the following week. This TNT-for-two picture has a new kind of "umph" when Simone Simon the little sweetheart from Paris steps in and out the show to add dynamite to the Winchell-Bernie feud. Simone in the greatest surprise knockout of the year sings operatic arias and swing tunes in "Love and Hisses." Handsome Dick Baldwin, who was such a hit in "Life Begins in College" has the romantic lead opposite the winsome little French cutie.

1937—another better year for dairymen.
Income of the nation's dairy farmers for 1937 is estimated at $1,470,000,000. This is $53,000,000 more than last year, and $181,000,000 over 1935—$337,000,000 better than 1934.
For everyone in the dairy industry—this year and every year—increased income very largely depends upon new and wider markets for milk and milk products.
The end of 1937 marks another milestone in Borden's unbroken record of 80 years of merchandising dairy products—research, advertising and selling all forms of milk.

THE TOPIC FOR TODAY IS

NEW CORN

The good days of dollar corn are gone, but with yields per acre twice as great as last year and a good part of the new corn made up of water which will dry out later and not count for corn weight, the present price will bring in as many dollars per acre. Our grain drier has been operating day and night for some two weeks. We are prepared to take in new corn in any quantity.

FLOCK OWNERS—Be careful in feeding new corn to laying flocks whether hen or pullets—it might easily upset them right in the present good egg season—use kiln dried corn either cracked or ground in mash feed and take no chances. WAYNE Supplement and K. D. Corn can't be beat.

Check up on your milk production. Cows coming in from good pasture need WAYNE Dairy Feed to keep up production.

The response to our popular price advertising throughout this year has been very gratifying. Of course, by popular prices we mean conscientiously low prices—not mere cheapness.
